

A 951 L Planer from FELDER

The high quality A 951L Felder planer impresses with detailed solutions and a planing table that is without competition in its class. From the first glance, the large dimensioned and perfectly designed machine table conveys the key characteristics of the latest planer from Felder: Power, stability and operating comfort of the highest level.

The Felder planing fence is designed to save space and enables the machine to be set up directly next to the workshop wall. The fold away comfort planing guard integrated into the machine chassis offers maximum freedom of movement when planing. The planer thicknessers from the Felder 900 series have been successful for many years and were developed specifically for intensive use in small and large woodworking companies.

They have now been optimised even further by the Tyrolean machine manufacturers to meet the demands of modern professional woodworkers.
